

Controversial Issues At Home Learning Plan:

Students will use these two weeks to practice reading comprehension, review grammar and sentence patterns, and enrich their understanding of Sudanese refugees, which we have been studying before school was closed. Students should follow the following pacing guide to help manage their time and turn in their work into our Google Classroom. The code for Google Classroom for this class is: tguxfe2. Please note that I have listed dates that follow the odd-even schedule we use at Oceana.

Date	Topic	Assignment and Instructions
Friday, 3/20	Child Soldiers	Watch the video Emanuel Jal: Child Soldier Survivor (video) This is the same video we started on Thursday but did not finish. After you watch, write a short reflection about what you found surprising, interesting, and troubling about what you learned. Here is the link to the Google Classroom Assignment:
Tuesday, 3/24	Humanities Support	Students should use this day to work on their Humanities coursework. 9th grade students will be reading a difficult novel, When the Elephants Dance , while 10th grade students are reviewing course concepts from the last two years and then exploring current human rights abuses. On this day, I will be available on-line through Google Hangouts to help with their Humanities work from 2:00-3:00 to help students more directly. I will send a link to students at that time.
Thursday, 3/26	Current Events	Go to https://www.nbcnews.com/ Choose 1 article to read and write a short summary and response to the article: Summary and Response
Monday, 3/30	Child Soldiers: Struggle to move on	Read the article, “South Sudan's former child soldiers struggle to move on.” Complete the assignment “Child Soldiers Struggle to Move on”
Wednesday, 4/1	Current Events	Go to https://www.nbcnews.com/ Choose 1 article to read and write a short summary and response to the article: Summary and Response
Friday, 4/3	Humanities Support	Students should use this day to work on their Humanities coursework. 9th grade students will be reading a difficult novel, When the Elephants Dance , while 10th grade students are reviewing course concepts from the last two years and then exploring current human rights abuses. On this day, I will be available on-line through Google Hangouts to help with their Humanities work from 2:00-3:00 to help students more directly. I will send a link to students at that time.